

Having trouble in school? Have you tried...

- Doing 1 hour of homework every night (homework means reading, studying for tests, reviewing notes as well as assignments posted on the board)?
- Paying attention in class & taking good notes?
- Asking questions – in class, after class?
- Meeting with the teacher – after class, before or after school?
- Utilizing on-line assignments/homework at teachers' websites?
- Using the Parent Portal to monitor your academic progress?
- Finding a “study buddy” – a classmate who is doing well in the class that you can call at home or ask questions of during school?
- Learning Centers? Teachers are available during study halls in the department offices to help any student. Schedules are posted and available in the Counseling and Career Center.
- Using weekly progress reports? Give to teachers on Wednesday and pick up from them on Friday to give updated information about how you are doing and what is coming up.
- Emailing teachers directly weekly for updates and homework, tests and quizzes, projects coming up?
- Utilizing a study tutor? National Honor Society and other students may be available during studies and after school to help.
- Hiring a tutor for once a week, intense tutorial support? A list is available from the counselors.

 If you do this, the other steps may not be necessary.

Individual departments and teachers offer alternative supports.
Inquire of the specific teacher.
